By Alice Gaines

From Changeling Press – Elfin Delights. What could be better than one hunky elf? Two of them!

When Marla Roberts gets lost in the Northern California redwood forest, she doesn't expect to find a gingerbread cottage inhabited by two hunky males with pointy ears and flaming red hair. world. What's more... if she passes all their tests, they have an even bigger reward for her.

MÉNAGE ON A TRAIN

By Alice Gaines

Cass Weston hated the idea of joining the mile high club. After all, who wanted to grope in a crowded airplane bathroom when you could have the erotic trip of a lifetime on a luxury train through the Eastern European mountains? Especially when the journey boasted a long, dark tunnel that provided the perfect opportunity for sex with a stranger. Make that strangers.

The man Cass set her sights on also had a friend without a partner of his own. Lucky for them that Cass is up for a little adventure....

Lynn Lorenz

April 7th saw the release of the third book in Lynn Lorenz's contemporary gay paranormal series, Common Powers, Edward, Unconditionally.

When Jack meets Edward at a traffic stop, his world is rocked – and not for the better. Edward is the gayest man he's ever seen, and Spring Lake is a small town just getting comfortable with its own new gay couple, Brian Russell and Rush Weston. Unlike Edward, Rush and Brian are big, strapping, manly men. But manly isn't what turns Jack on. It's Edward – everything about the younger man drives Jack wild with desire and the need to control Edward's wild, impetuous spirit.

For Edward, his attraction to "bad boys" has been his romantic downfall. His heart's been broken so many times he's lost count. When he meets Jack, Edward falls for the all-American by-the-book lawman, but finds his attempts rebuffed and his pride severely wounded. Jack's straight, or at least says he is, but Edward knows that look in Jack's eyes, he's seen it before from other men. How can a man so right be so wrong?

Edward tempts Jack beyond anyone he's ever met and his desire for Edward builds each time he encounters the younger man, until he can no longer deny it or himself. But Edward doesn't want sex on the side, he wants forever. He wants the fairy tale.

Can Jack give Edward what he wants or will Jack's fear of being ridiculed for his choice of a partner keep them from their Happily Ever After?

"The lives of two likable characters collide as they try desperately to enjoy their sexual encounters without any expectation of commitment. Armstrong develops their emotional and physical connection through numerous sex scenes, and she succeeds in making the sparks fly — whether the couple is in human or wolf form. Meet the Siren of the Month

Lynn Lorenz

Hello, everyone. I think introductions are always a good way to start. Please tell us something about yourself.

I'm Lynn Lorenz and I've been writing for the last 4 years, but only seriously since 2007. My first book was published in February of '08 and I've had six more published since then. I write both het and gay romance, and in every genre from paranormal to historical.

What made you happiest about your latest or upcoming book?

My latest book is Common Powers 3: Edward, Unconditionally, released April 7th by Loose Id.

I'm ecstatic that it turned out so well, and that I took a little bit of a risk and it paid off. Let's just say Edward isn't your standard hero, but he's funny, endearing and just what Police Chief Jack Whittaker needs to toss his "nice" life around like a salad.

What frustrated you about your latest or upcoming book?

That the last 5 chapters took 10 chapters. I kept thinking... "just 5 more.. just 5 more." But by the time I truly finished telling the story, it had taken nearly 10 chapters to get there. My DH kept asking "so how long do 5 chapters take?" After a while, I stopped laughing at him.

You've released several books in the past few months. How do you manage to keep up that pace?

Drugs? Alcohol? Nope. I'm anal about my writing time, and I spend about 2 hours each day writing, and an hour or so editing what I've written and correcting it. Then, on the weekends, I write for about 5-6 hours a day. It's about 20 hours per week, and since I'm a fast writer, I can turn out a book in just a few months, depending on the length.

And in April, May and July, I'll be releasing 4 more books. I'm dedicating the summer to writing - I have several books that I need to write, including a September deadline.

And if that seems like a lot, I have about 6 manuscripts that I've started, waiting to be finished, and 5 finished that I've been holding on to for a more mainstream publisher.

What haven't you done that you always wish you had?

In writing, there isn't much I haven't done, except literary fiction. I do have a concept that I'd love to write - sort of like a "Fried Green Tomatoes" - a fictionalized story based on my grandmother, a remarkable woman.

As for me personally? That old joke, "If I'd known I was gonna live this long I'd of taken better care of myself."

Does plastic surgery count? I'd love bigger lips and a stronger chin. Or maybe get eyeliner tattooed on. Superficial, but, hey, when you're older you think about these things. They are quite tempting and probably not worth the money, but if I ever hit the lotto jackpot, I'll claim the money after the surgery, so I can look good picking up that check!

When your readers want to know more, where can we find out?

Excerpt from
WALPURGIS NIGHT
By Katherine Kingston
<http://www.katherinekingston.com>

Note: Originally released as part of the EQUINOX 1 anthology, the story is being re-released by Ellora's Cave as a stand-alone novella.

In 10th-century England, Norse invaders have begun to settle down and intermingle with the Anglo-Saxon residents. On Walpurgis Night it's expected that all adults will do their part to ensure the fertility of the land by indulging in sexual activity. Healer Fianna has been warned she must choose a partner for the night, but she doesn't like any of the candidates available in her town. When forced to make a decision, she selects Henrik, a visiting Norseman who's come to watch the festivities.

They have a sizzling night together, but then he departs. Later, when Henrik's brother is wounded, he forces her to come and treat him. Fianna's not sure she can save the gravely injured man, but agrees to try. The situation forces her into close proximity with Henrik, and neither can resist the sexual attraction and growing love between them. But Henrik has long planned to leave the area as soon as his brother is healed and able to take over Henrik's responsibilities.

Excerpt from Walpurgis Night

She stared into his eyes, now the color of cold steel. She drew a harsh breath. "Aye."

"This can stop now, if you wish," he said.

Her heart clenched and a lump formed in her throat that made it difficult to speak. "Nay, I don't wish to stop."

She was sure the look on his face was relief, but he said, "Then you need to be persuaded to do as I tell you?"

"Perhaps," she admitted.

"Are you sure? You know what I'll do."

He asked more than one question with those words, and Fianna thought about all of them before she answered. "Aye."

He nodded. "Stand still," he said, stepping back away from her. "Do not move."

She didn't move, but she watched him pick up the leather belt he'd removed earlier. She watched him double it over and hold one end. Then he was behind her and she couldn't see it anymore.

She heard the swish of air as it swung and the crack when the leather smacked against the flesh of her bottom, printing a streak of pain across it. The shock of it as much as the sting made her cry out. He hadn't really struck very hard, she realized, but the leather was heavy and it did burn. She was more prepared for the next smack and was able to swallow her outcry. He spanked her five or six more times, until her bottom was stinging fiercely and she could no longer stifle a moan.

But, like the sensation when he'd bitten her nipples, the sting was washing through her system and transmuting into something just the opposite of pain. The burn went straight to her womb and settled hot and heavy between her legs. It was a deliciously agonizing feeling.

"Are you ready to obey me?" he asked.

"I... I think not," she said. She looked at his face. His expression was neither angry nor unhappy, but watchful, intent, and even a bit joyful. She had a sudden realization. This was a kind of a game. Serious in its way, but not serious in the manner of things that really mattered—life and death, illness and injury. She could stop it whenever she wished. He wouldn't hurt her anymore than she wanted to be hurt. But he hoped she could meet his enjoyment of this different way of giving and taking love, and was pleased by her responses so far. She'd joined him in a strange and different sort of mating. She admitted to herself that so far she was enjoying it just as much as he was. "Nay, not yet," she reaffirmed.

WALPURGIS NIGHT By Katherine Kingston

The leather spanked down a bit harder. The pain was bright, fierce, almost overwhelming, and she moaned softly. As it faded, though, it became a deeper burn that fed the pressure of need within her. Five more whacks each stoked the fire within and without, until she was awash in sensation. The next one struck low down, at the crease between bottom and thighs, and it stung far worse than any of the others. She squealed and reached back to massage the blazing flesh.

"No more," she said. "Please, no more. I'll do whatever you ask."

"Well enough, then." He put the belt back with the sword sheath before he came back and stood in front of her. "On your knees, now, and kiss my cock."

She dropped to her knees, leaned forward, bracing herself by holding onto his hips, and pressed her lips to the hard shaft about midway along its length. He tasted a little salty and very male. After moving her mouth a bit over him, she hesitated, unsure what to do next.

"Put your tongue on it," he directed. When she'd done so, he added, "Lick up and down, from the base to the tip and back."

It felt strange and exhilarating to touch him so intimately, to hear his breath come faster and harder, to feel him getting tenser and harder. His cock was a thing of wonder to her. The skin was soft and smooth, though it felt very thin, over the hard length of it. The bulbous tip was even smoother, with skin as soft as a baby's. He groaned as her tongue reached the small opening in the tip and explored.

She worked back down. When she reached the base, she started up again. He caught a sharp breath in his throat and put a hand on her head to stop her.

"No more for now," he said. "Your tongue is so skillful, you'll have me exploding beforetimes."

Fianna was absurdly pleased by the compliment. He drew her to her feet, wrapped his arms around her to pull her close against him and kissed her on the mouth. He pried open her lips and explored the inside with his tongue. She met him and tangled her own tongue with his, stroking until she was burning up with the heat pouring through her.

Mouths still meshed together, he urged her backward until they reached the feather-stuffed mat that was her bed. He released her and then eased her down until she lay on the bed looking up at him. He knelt on the floor beside her.

His hands played with her breasts, his fingers stroking, tweaking, rolling, pinching her nipples until she was moaning and the pressure of need built in her loins to throbbing intensity.

First Book of the Coopers' Companions Series

By Lynn LaFleur

Publisher: Ellora's Cave

ISBN: 9781419902666 (e-book)

ISBN: 9781419954023 (print)

Genre: Contemporary Sophisticate Book

Length: Novel

It isn't Jade Talmage's idea to accept her daughter's offer to hire an escort for the hospital gala. But the absence of her brother Paul — her usual companion — leaves her with no choice.

Enter Zachary Cooper, one-third owner of Coopers' Companions, a professional escort company. Despite his good looks and sex appeal that make her hormones scream, Jade has no intention of being the next in a long line of the rent-a-stud's conquests. Besides, he's ten years younger than she.

Zach doesn't care that Jade is older. He wants a lifetime with the woman he's fallen for so desperately. All he has to do is convince Jade that he's much more than a rent-a-stud...he's the man who loves her.

Excerpt from Rent-a-Stud

A woman's arousal had never been more important to him. He wanted to please Jade more than he'd ever wanted to please a woman.

He nipped the pounding pulse in her neck.
"Spread your legs more."

Once she was open to him, Zach ran his left hand inside the front of her thong. Warm, thick cream covered her labia. "Mmm, you're really wet and swollen. I like that." He pushed his middle finger inside her. "And tight."

She sucked in a sharp breath. "It's been...awhile for me."

"Then I'd better loosen you up a bit." His index finger joined the first one. Jade moaned. "Am I hurting you?"

"No. It feels...Oh!...wonderful." She shifted her hips, moving them in a small circle. "More, please."

Granting her request, Zach pulled aside the elastic of her thong and slipped his right hand between her buttocks. He moved his left hand up to her clit. Picking up the cream from her pussy, he transferred some to her anus. He pushed two fingers back inside her pussy and his thumb in her ass as he rubbed her clit.

Jade hung her head and closed her eyes. "Too much?" Zach whispered in her ear.

"No. It's..." She gasped when he gently pinched her clit. "I'm almost... It won't take much more to make me come."

"Good. That's what I want. Concentrate on what I'm doing to you, how good it feels. Take your pleasure, Jade."

Her moan signaled the start of her climax. The contractions grabbed his fingers and thumb. Zach pushed both farther into her body and bit her neck. She threw her head back to his shoulder and bucked her hips as she rode out the wave.

RENT-A-STUD By Lynn LaFleur

Her labia still felt swollen to him. Suspecting desire still coursed through her body despite her orgasm, Zach continued to gently caress her. "Come again for me, Jade."

"I can't, not so soon."

"Yes, you can. Your body wants to. Let go and enjoy the feeling."

He began to pump his thumb in and out of her ass while continuing the attention to her clit. It took only moments for Jade to tremble from a second orgasm.

Zach nibbled her earlobe. "Told you so."

A bubble of laughter broke loose from Jade. "Stop sounding so smug." She pushed her hair back from her forehead. "My legs are weak."

"Do you want me to stop?"

"Oh, no!"

"Thank God."

She turned her head and looked at him. "It shouldn't feel so good. I've come twice, but your touch still feels so good."

"To me, too. But I think it's time to get you naked. Unsnap your bra."

Zach shifted to Jade's side so she could reach behind her. She removed her bra and tossed it off the bed. He gazed at large, creamy breasts with coral nipples.

"Damn." Raising his left hand, he drew a circle around one areola. "Your breasts are beautiful. I have to find out if they're as delicious as they look."

Cupping the warm globe in his hand, Zach lowered his head and drew her nipple into his mouth. Her juices covered his hand. He could smell her unique scent as he suckled hungrily. Smelling wasn't enough; he needed to taste her, too. He alternated between sucking her nipple and licking her cream from his fingers.

Delicious.

Jade clasped his head and pushed her breast toward his mouth. "Oh, yes. Just like that."

Zach shifted his hand to her other breast, kneading it while he continued to suck her nipple. His right hand stayed busy between her thighs, caressing her feminine lips and anus. He knew he could make her come again with his fingers, but he needed more than that. He needed to have his cock buried to the balls inside her the next time she came.

Pulling his hands away from Jade, Zach kissed her before whispering, "Lie down."

She shook her head. "I think you should lie down."

Zach raised his eyebrows at her command. His little temptress had returned. Never one to disappoint a lady, he reclined on his back and folded his hands behind his head.

Jade climbed off the bed and slipped out of her thong and stockings. She returned to the bed, this time straddling his hips. Slowly, she lowered her body until her labia cushioned his shaft. Zach hissed in a breath.

"God, your pussy is hot."

"And your cock is hard."

Zach grinned. "I love it when you talk dirty."

"How about if I do more than 'talk'?"

"I'm game."

"Are you?"

Unsure what she meant by that question, Zach frowned slightly. His frown quickly faded when Jade reached into the box of "goodies" and withdrew the butt plug. "Do you plan to use that?"

She ran the fingers of one hand up and down the piece of soft pink plastic. "Mmm-hmm."

"Are you going to put it in, or are you going to let me do it?"

"I'm going to do it."

Zach swallowed hard, the mental picture of her inserting the plug into her body making his cock jerk. "I hope you realize I plan to fuck you while that plug is in your ass."

"Oh, I'm not going to use it on me." A wicked smile touched her lips. "I'm going to use it on you."

Decadent Delights

By Siren Alice Gaines

Pasta doesn't always dress in red

We're all familiar with red spaghetti sauce, but pasta is an incredibly versatile food, which lends itself to just about any kind of dressing you can think up. Let your creativity run wild! Here are a few recipes to get you thinking. One is traditionally Italian, one could come from everywhere, and one is distinctly American. I follow that with a lagniappe - a recipe and a challenge for the adventurous cook.

Pesto made in the food processor

Once you've made this combination of herbs, oil, butter and great cheese, you'll want to keep some stocked in the freezer. Freeze in serving-sized portions, and you'll always have a delicious meal. Just thaw the pesto and boil a bunch of water.

A note about cheese for this recipe and the next one, the cheese in the cardboard cylinder won't make the grade. I highly suggest the real deal - aged Italian Parmigiano-Reggiano and Pecorino Romano. Costco sells excellent examples of both. Pricey, but worth it. If you can't get the real thing, buy a hunk each of parmesan and romano at the supermarket and grate it yourself.

1/2 cup finely grated Parmigiano-Reggiano
2 Tbs finely grated Pecorino Romano
3 Tbs softened butter

2 cups fresh basil leaves
2 Tbs pine nuts
2 cloves of garlic, peeled and crushed
1 tsp salt

1/2 cup extra virgin olive oil

In a large bowl, mix butter and cheese. Set aside. Put the rest of the ingredients, except for the oil, in the food processor and pulse until chopped. With the motor running, pour the oil through the feed tube until ingredients are a paste. Mix with butter/cheese mixture.

Pasta in cream garlic sauce

This is incredibly fattening because of all the cream. It's also luscious. I use it as a side dish.

1-1/2 cups heavy cream

2 medium cloves of garlic, peeled and crushed but not chopped or minced

1/3 pound of substantial pasta, such as ziti, penne, mostacciolo, rotinni, farfale, etc

1/3 cup grated Parmigiano or Romano

Salt and pepper to taste

Bring a big pot of water to a boil. Put cream and garlic into heavy-bottomed pot. Bring to a simmer and cook, stirring frequently to prevent scorching. Cook until cream has thickened. The sauce will thicken further when the cheese is added.

Depending on how hot your flame is, this could take up to 20 minutes. If you want it faster, increase heat, but you'll have to stir and check constantly to make sure it's not scorching.

While sauce is cooking, boil the pasta according to package instructions. Drain well. When sauce is done, fish out the garlic cloves and discard. Stir in pasta and cheese. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Cincinnati chili

Many years ago, the folks in Cincinnati, Ohio decided to use chili as a sauce for spaghetti. One evening, I was too exhausted to even deal with take-out. I got out some spaghetti and a can of chili and tried this. It was yummy, fast, and easy.

Spaghetti for two people

15 oz can of your favorite chili with beans

Grated Monterey jack or Cheddar cheese or other cheese of your choice

Finely chopped mild onions (optional)

Sour cream (optional)

Hot sauce (optional)

Put large pot of water to boil. Gently warm the chili in a large frying pan. Cook pasta to desired doneness. When it's cooked, either drain it, saving some of the water first, or scoop the pasta out of the pot with tongs. Add pasta to the chili and mix thoroughly. Add enough of the pasta water to make chili into a sauce.

Serve in a bowl with the toppings. Yum.

A little something extra: Homemade pasta in the food processor

For this recipe, you need either someone strong and patient to roll it out or a hand-cranked pasta roller. Pasta rollers cost under $100 and much less if you find a bargain. They pay for themselves over the years.

1 cup flour
1 tsp salt
1 egg
1 Tbs. olive oil

Extra water

Beat egg with oil. Pulse flour and salt in food processor to combine. With motor running, add egg/oil mixture through the feed tube. Dribble in water until ball of dough forms on the blades.

Remove to floured board and knead, adding extra flour as necessary to form a mass of dough. Wrap in plastic wrap and refrigerate for an hour. Roll out on a floured board or pass through the rollers until desired thickness, dusting with flour if the dough becomes sticky. Cut into desired shape, dust with flour, and allow to dry.

To cook fresh pasta, you need large amounts of water to prevent sticking. Fresh pasta cooks very quickly – only a minute or two after water returns to a boil.

This is absolutely the best way to make manicotti or cannelloni, as the dried tubes are very difficult to stuff.
